

Desert Commercial Concrete makes ENR list of nation's 600 largest specialty contractors

INDIO, Calif. – November 25, 2007 – Desert Commercial Concrete, one of the Williams Companies, has been ranked as one of America's 600 largest specialty contracting companies by Engineering News-Record, a leading national construction magazine.

Desert Commercial Concrete ranked 436th on the list of 600 specialty contracting companies nationwide based on 2006 revenue. The companies on the list included all the major construction specialties, including concrete, demolition/wrecking, electrical, excavation/foundation, glazing/curtain wall, masonry, mechanical, painting, roofing, sheet metal, steel erection, utility, wall, and asbestos abatement.

Company President Diane C. Williams said she is pleased by the ENR ranking. "It's always gratifying to be recognized for your success," she said, "but especially when you consider that a lot of the other companies on the list are large, publicly-owned corporations with operations spread out all over the country. We're not built that way. We have a small, tightly-knit management team, highly-skilled employees who have been with us for many years, and we focus on the Coachella Valley because we're specialists in the desert."

The Williams Companies – Desert Commercial Concrete and Milmark Painting, Inc. – are the largest firms in their fields headquartered in the Coachella Valley, with a combined 45 years of service to the local construction industry. With offices and facilities in Indio, the companies provide contracted concrete and painting services to production home builders, custom home builders, homeowner associations, and commercial builders of office, retail, and industrial projects.
